GUIDED FROM FIRE BY UNKNOWN HAND

Miss Siminton Describes the Burning of Owlyout.

TELLS OF THRILLING ESCAPE

Awakened by Loud Cry Uttered by Some Person Unknown to Her and Assisted to Leave the Building by Some One She Does Not Know. Lost Money, Wardrobe, and Trunk.

"I was awakened in the dead of night by a loud cry. Who it was aroused me I sans trunk, and sans considerable money returned to her mother's home at 1124 S street, yesterday morning to give the account quoted above of her narrow escape from death in the fire which destroyed the Owlyout Lodge Hotel in Clinton County, N. Y., on Thursday last. Praises the Rescuers.

Miss Siminton is warm in her praise of those who aided the guests to get to the ntrances, and declares that but for the cool-headedness of several men, the burning building might have been the funeral pyre of half a score of persons.

"You see," she explained, "the building was, in some respects, like a huge barn. It was all wood, large, rambling, and difficult to get at.

By the time the fire had gained a fair headway, there was a sheet of flame aristhat came to me was of the $14 in my
